Man Needs a Rose

Man needs a rose, that he may hold

Some bit of heaven to be his own; a vibrant rose
To speak of love; God's largess, fairer far than gold;

A rose so wonderful it shows

None but God made it, I have seen

The weeping strands of my birch tree

Be sainted by the sun at dawn, its green

A halo; still, I'd say to me,

"I'm glad I planted that . . . and right there, too."

Nor think the credit I assumed for this

Was really God's; until I'd see the dew

Break from some rosebud, like a fleeting kiss,

And, gazing down to golden depths, revealed

As every petal burst its lock and spread,

I'd know a bit of heaven had been annealed

And cast upon the earth where this rose fed.

Man needs be meek, and ne'er a flower grows

Can humble as it lifts him, like the rose.

Hazel F. Greiner.

TO OUR ROSE FRIENDS

Never before have we received so many enthusiastic letters commenting on the excellent quality of our roses. We do put "our All" into producing the best plants possible and it is gratifying to us to receive your letters of appreciation. It was a pleasure to meet so many of you personally and to assist you in planning your rose gardens.

As we check through our files, we find many repeat orders, which delight us, no end. We are assured of having roses we shall be proud to send you this season, as the bushes in the field look even better than they did last year.

To all of you, our rose friends and patrons, we extend our deep appreciation for your patronage and friendship and we hope to see or hear from you again this season.

Cordially yours,

Clyde + Ramona Stocking

George Haight

THE ALL AMERICA ROSE SELECTIONS

The roses carrying this distinctive emblem are the most outstanding introductions of recent years. New introductions are being judged yearly in the twenty-one All American Rose Selection Test Gardens and the five demonstration gardens.

The A.A.R.S. is an organization of nurserymen and hybridizers banded together for the specific purpose of selecting the best new introductions each year. New varieties are sent to the test and demonstration gardens each year where they are tested for a period of two years. These roses are scored on thirteen basic points such as form, habit, disease resistance, etc. At the end of the two year trial period, if any of the roses have attained a high enough score and are worthy of introduction to the general public in the opinion of the judges, they are given the coveted All American Award.

We are fortunate in having one of the twenty-one test gardens here on our growing grounds. You are cordially invited to visit it to preview the new roses of the next two years.

SHIPPING—Our new rose crop is available about the end of December, at which time we commence shipping and continue through the middle of March. We shall ship your order as promptly as possible at the proper planting time for your locality. Great care is taken in filling orders as well as in packing them to insure their reaching destinations in perfect condition. If through delay in shipping, the bushes should appear dry, bury the bushes in a trench, cover them completely with earth and keep wet for four days. Wet peat moss may be used if preferred. We guarantee every plant to be true to name and to reach you in good condition. If these conditions are not met, kindly notify us promptly. We will not be liable for plant losses as a result of flood, drought, frost or other causes beyond our control.

DISCOUNTS—When purchasing 10 or more plants regardless of varieties, bushes, or climbers, please deduct 10% except on special groups where no further discounts are allowed. Tree roses may not be included in this discount.

TERMS—In keeping with the general practice of nurseries throughout the country, may we suggest you send cash with your orders. In cases where substitutions are not desired, prompt refunds will be made in appreciation of your initial kindness to us.

PACKING AND SHIPPING

We shall pay delivery charges on all bush and climber orders over $5.00 to any point in the U. S. On each shipment less than $5.00 please add 50¢. All tree roses are shipped express collect.

Foreign orders are requested to write for information requesting an estimate of shipping costs.

POTTED PLANTS—Potted plants are available about April first and throughout the summer at a slight increase over the prices listed in the catalogue. We do not ship any potted material.

PRICES—Prices are subject to change without notice.

CALIFORNIA SALES TAX—Please add 3% to purchase price. This does not apply to purchasers outside the state.

SUBSTITUTIONS—We never substitute unless advised to do so. It is our deepest desire to supply each and everyone with the desired varieties of roses. However, due to unforeseen circumstances, such as crop failures and unknown demands, we cannot always supply all of the varieties you order. Thus to eliminate correspondence and delay, may we ask if we may substitute varieties of equal or more value in the same color range as ordered, using our knowledge of the adaptability of varieties to your region, as our guide? It is our desire to serve you and to do it well; thus we ask this privilege of substitution. Please designate (yes or no) such permission on your order.

PINTO TAG

We are pleased that our nursery, which was the first in Northern California to receive this award, has successfully maintained it. The Pinto Tag signifies that the nursery has been given a clean bill of health and that the stock may be shipped into most of the counties of the state without further inspection.

PLANTING AND CULTURAL HINTS

Open package as soon as received. If the roots are moist the plants may be planted at once. If, however, they appear dry, soak in water over night, and bury the entire bundle in a trench. Cover with earth and soak thoroughly. In three or four days the bushes will be ready to plant.

Cut off all bruised or broken roots with a sharp knife.

Loosen all labels, so as not to cut into plant.

Select a location free of tree or shrub roots, and exposed to at least half a day sun.

Dig a hole 18" to 24" in depth and width. If soil does not have good drainage, a gravel drain should be provided, Fig. 1.

It is always well to prepare the soil in advance of planting time. A mixture of 10% peat moss, 10% well rotted manure, and 10% alfalfa meal or rotted compost if available will produce excellent results. If neither of the latter two materials are available, use 15% peat moss and 15% manure. Mix well with 70% top soil.

Fill the hole half full of the mixture and firm well. Make a cone-shaped mound in center of hole, Fig. 1. Place crown of roots on cone, spreading roots, Fig. 2. Fill in above roots with soil and fill basin twice with water, Fig. 3. After water has settled, remainder of soil may be filled in, making sure the bud union is level or slightly above the level of the ground. In colder regions the bud union should be 2 inches below the surface of the ground. Mound soil four inches above union to prevent drying out and leave until growth starts when soil should be removed to just under bud union, Fig. 4.

All plants are moderately pruned. After planting, canes on bush roses should be pruned to six or eight inches while those on climbers should be 18 to 24 inches with the top bud pointing outward. Keep plants well watered all during the growing period.

Should you find a plant that is slower than the others in leafing out, make a frame around it and fill with sopping wet peat practically covering the entire plant. Usually this will bring the plant into full leaf within 10 days.

Roses prefer a soil slightly acid, but will tolerate a slightly alkaline soil. They seem to do well in both light and heavy soil, but must, however, have good drainage.

Roses are usually hungry and thirsty. One of our most common mistakes is not giving them sufficient water. Keep the ground moist. Water thoroughly each time. Frequency of watering depends on your soil, usually from one- to three-week intervals. Water in morning only.

In the early spring, mulch rose beds with either cow manure, peat moss or lawn clippings. Cow manure is excellent if clean, but foul weeds and insect pests may be brought into the garden through it. Feed each plant a half teacup of a well-balanced commercial fertilizer every six weeks during the growing season.

If you do not use a mulch, cultivate the ground lightly after each watering; just enough to break the crust. Deep cultivating cuts the feeding rootlets.

Keep the roses well watered in summer. Allowing them to dry and go dormant causes the bushes to defoliate and sunburn.

Ground canes are the best wood on a rose bush. They are the soft new canes coming from around the bud union, with foliage and thorns identical to the older growth. Suckers come from below the bud union and have entirely different foliage, thorns and color. Suckers should be cut out as soon as identified.

PEST CONTROL

Roses, like all living plants, have insects and diseases to attack them. These may be controlled with little effort. The most important part of control is thoroughness and consistency. A program of spraying or dusting every ten days should be sufficient.

There are many effective sprays and dusts on the market. Often similar materials are sold under different trade names. We have found Rix (two teaspoons to the gallon and Fermate one to two tablespoons to the gallon) to be very effective in the control of rust and mildew. Among the many excellent insecticides are: Vaportone, Extrax Delux, Isotox, and Malathion. In many sections Triogen, a combination spray is excellent. If one prefers dusts, duPont Rose dust, Ortho Rose dust, or a mixture of 9 parts of 325 mesh ground dusting sulphur to 1 part Fermate. Powdered nicotine or rotenone may be added to the latter as an insecticide.

A cleanup spray immediately after the winter pruning, consisting of 10 tablespoons of Bordeaux mixture to a gallon of water, is very effective in destroying fungi spores. This spraying should be repeated just before the buds break in the spring. Spray the ground around the plant, after raking up and burning the old leaves, as well as the plant.

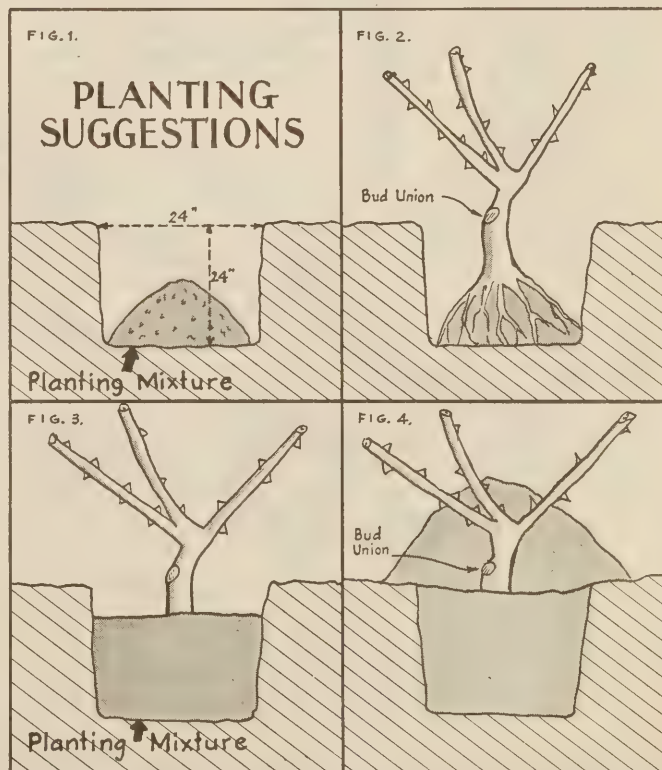

PRUNING

Pruning is very important. We cannot give complete instructions on pruning that will apply to all varieties and in all sections of the country. However, there are general rules that can be followed. As roses are produced on new wood, vigorous growth must be encouraged. During the dormant season, leave the new wood and cut out as much of the old wood as is possible and yet retain the form of the plant. Cut back about half of the previous year's growth, cutting $\frac{1}{4}$ inch above a leaf that is pointing on the outside of the bush. All dead and weak wood should be eliminated. Proper cutting of roses should be sufficient for summer pruning.

CUTTING ROSES

In cutting roses, always leave three or four leaves of the new blooming wood, cutting about $\frac{1}{4}$ inch above a leaf on the outside of the bush.

Cutting roses in the late afternoon has been proven to be the most satisfactory time. Double roses should be cut as the petals begin to unfurl, single roses as the sepals separate, showing the color. Mash or split the ends of the stems about a half inch and plunge immediately in cold water up to the neck of the rose. Leave out of doors over night. Occasionally a variety will keep longer by plunging the ends in boiling water. Charlotte Armstrong is one of these.

Pictured at the right is one of our fields of roses which will be harvested and delivered to you during the late fall of 1953 and early winter of 1954. Grown in the beautiful Santa Clara Valley which is known as the "Valley of Heart's Delight", these bushes with their sturdy canes and well-developed root systems will produce plants for you next season which will grow vigorously, bloom profusely, and bring much delight into your hearts. The photograph was taken in early July as the plants were completing their first bloom. Already waist high at this time, they still had five months to continue their growth and fully mature before being dug, processed and shipped to eager customers all over the country.

We cordially invite you to follow the map at the left to visit our growing fields, test gardens, and sales yards. The fields are generally in good bloom from June thru September. Our half mile of fence covered with climbers will not be as colorful this coming season since we are replacing many of the older varieties. There will still be plenty of color though, especially in May and June.

POLYANTHA and FLORIBUNDA ROSES

Polyantha are the small roses usually produced in clusters and commonly called "Baby Roses". Floribunda is a new classification of the larger flowering varieties of the polyanthas which are becoming more popular. They are most effectively used in mass plantings along driveways, walls or for border planting, etc. Floribundas come in a wide range of colors and produce a mass of color over a long period of time. All of those listed below are quite free of disease.

CRIMSON GLORY

Pictured on this page are some of our newest and finest climbers. The individual flowers of all of them are exceptionally fine and the plants will produce quantities of bloom. If the canes are trained so that they are parallel with the ground, you will obtain more bloom. Climbers should not be pruned the first year but may be headed back if growth is too vigorous after the second or third year. Thinning may also be done then by removing several of the older and woodier canes.
